

DONGXIANG LI

Advisor (Knowledge Sharing & Services)
Regional and Sustainable Development Department
Asian Development Bank
dongxiangli@adb.org

Mr. Li leads the vision and goals of the RSDD Knowledge Sharing and Services Center by planning, implementing, and supervising knowledge sharing initiatives. He also engages, supports, and collaborates with knowledge departments, operational departments, resident missions, developing member countries, and other partners on knowledge sharing activities. He initiated the PRC-ADB Knowledge Sharing Platform and the ADB-Asian Think Tank Development Forum with PRC and ADB colleagues.

Mr. Li worked for over 20 years in Ministry of Finance (MOF) of PRC with extensive experiences in development finance, project management, knowledge management, regional economic cooperation and public-private partnership. He was the Director of the ADB Division in the International Department of MOF before joining ADB in 2011, responsible for the overall cooperation between PRC and the ADB. He won the Outstanding Civil Servant Prize many times and was awarded a country level Class Three Medal.

Mr. Li, a national of the People's Republic of China, holds master and bachelor degrees in International Economics from Peking University. He also studied in the Johns Hopkins University-Nanjing University Center on Chinese and American Studies.